HARGRAVE 96' CAPRI RAISED PILOTHOUSE 'LA VIDA'

Much like a prism, the interior of 'La vida' at first glance has clean lines and a sleek finish, yet with every slight turn colours dance before your eyes. Designed by owners who like to entertain and live life to the full, it is only appropriate that the name of their boat when translated means 'The life'. This yacht represents the next generation of Hargrave yachts that blend artistic licence with ample design expertise.

Her profile looks European with rounded windows yet her interior is full of Latin American spirit with paintings and decorative items from Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic. The worldly owners assisted in the interior design stage and allowed their Latin heritage to shine proudly through. Island colours of purple, buttercup, coral and aqua are splashed throughout an otherwise neutral palette of cream with accents from the high-gloss sapele wood details. The four staterooms below deck are equally vibrant and inviting and each has its own luxurious en-suite head. A growing family and large group of friends are frequent guests aboard this yacht, so every creature comfort was addressed.

Outdoor space includes a fine aft deck with teak club chairs, more brilliant colours and entertainment options, as well as a large and highly functional flybridge. One of the most unique design elements of this yacht is found on the flybridge, which boasts a custom day head to starboard. The private fibreglass structure was built around the seating area so as not to disrupt the flow of the space and was included so that guests could stay on the flybridge literally all day and truly make the most of their outdoor experience. As demonstrated by this gorgeous yacht, the owner defines 'La vida' as a reason to live each day as if it is your last, to celebrate each moment with those you love, to create lasting memories and to capture and surround yourself with the beauty and spirit of the world.
